LETTERS FROM CORRESPONDENTS.

Around the County in Seven Days.

The Happenings of the Past Week Told in Detail by Efficient Correspondents.

PROVO.

Provo, Utah, Aug. 2, 1900.

ELECTOR TIMES.

C. H. Wirth of Rockport, was a welcome visitor in Provo last week.

A large number of our citizens will go to Wanship today to take part in the old folks reunion and contribute to their comfort and enjoyment.

Mrs. Lulu Miles and Miss Amy C. Lyons returned home on Saturday after spending a pleasant week in visiting with friends in Weber county.

County Attorney C. A. Callie was in Provo on Tuesday, official business, as usual, bringing him up this way. The gentleman paid your correspondent a visit while here.

Judge La Grange Young and family came out from Salt Lake City on Tuesday and will reside at his neat and pleasant home in Holiday Park during the hot term.

J. A. Marchant went to Salt Lake last week to attend the District Judicial convention. The gentleman is highly pleased with the ticket the Republicans have placed in the field.

On Saturday afternoon, Ivy, the little daughter of J. A. Marchant, had one of her feet severely burnt by stepping in some hot coal ashes which a neighbor had thoughtlessly thrown upon the sidewalk. The little one has been in considerable pain ever since the accident, the greater portion of the skin having come off from the top of the foot.

A farewell party will be given to Elder Emil Isakson on Friday afternoon and evening. There will be speaking, singing, recitations, reading and instrumental music; then there will be a picnic served; the entertainment will close with a dance in the evening, the proceeds of which will go to help the young man on his journey to Sweden where he goes to fill a mission.

On Tuesday three young men, two of them being fathers of families, were up before the justice of the peace for disturbing the peace and fighting; they were fined in sums ranging from five to ten dollars. County Attorney Callie prosecuted the cases and in his argument took occasion, and justly, to score the peace officers for existing conditions. The gentlemen "spoke right out in meeting," without fear or favor, and his remarks are calculated to better the present conditions and for the peace and quiet law abiding citizens. It would be a shame had that could not, or would not grasp the meaning of the able Attorney and profit thereby.

B. R. E. VICK.

"My baby was terrible sick with diarrhoea," says J. H. Hawk, of Williams, Oregon. "We were unable to cure him with the doctors assistance, and as a last resort we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I am happy to say it gave immediate relief and a complete cure." For Sale by John Boyden & Son.

UTRON.

Utrou, Utah, Aug. 2, 1900.

were welcome visitors to Utrou on Sunday last. They were the guests of Mrs. Jacob Hoffman.

Elder J. J. Brown of Hoptonville favored Utrou with a visit as a home missionary on Sunday last, and addressed the Saints at the afternoon services; his remarks being timely and interesting.

GRASS CREEK.

Grass Creek, Aug. 2, 1900.

ELECTOR TIMES.

Hot weather and dusty roads, as usual. Our citizens have been numerous in Coalville this week.

The sister and nephew of Elijah Turner have returned home to Springville after a visit of ten days.

Our new school and meeting house is up to the level, and when completed it will accommodate 50 percent more than the old one.

The speakers at the L. T. S. meeting Sunday were: W. S. Wilde, Elijah Turner, Patrick John Smith and John David Barber.

The advanced grade of the religious classes met in session on Saturday evening with quite a number of visitors present, who took part with the members in the lessons.

Catharine John Smith visited our place and attended religious class, Sabbath school and sacrament meeting last Sunday. He made his home at the residence of Joseph Barber, and gave patriarchal blessings to fifteen of our number. Joseph Barber and daughter, Eliza J., acted as scribes.

For digestive weakness, nervousness, pains in the side, flatulence, distention, wakefulness, headache and other annoying accompaniments of costiveness, HENEFER is a prompt and unequalled remedy. Price, 50 cents. John Boyden & Son.

HENEFER.

Henefers, Utah, Aug. 2, 1900.

ELECTOR TIMES.

Mrs. W. G. Higgins returned to the metropolis Tuesday.

Miss Lila Prudence of Park City is visiting relatives here.

John Packett attended the Republican Judicial Convention at Salt Lake City July 28th.

The range has not been in as poor condition, as now, within the recollection of the oldest settlers.

Mr. and Mrs. George Harris have moved from their home on the west side. The building has been repainted.

The people are very busy with their hay crop, and the harvesting of grain has commenced. The grain is ripening much faster this year than usual.

Our cemetery committee intends to go ahead with fencing and improving our cemetery as soon as the hay work is over, that is if the people will back them in the undertaking. All who have promised and those who have not yet put their names down, should do their part at once to make this job not only a success, but a lasting credit to the people of Henefers. I notice our neighbors in Hoptonville are engaged in a number of worthy enterprises, which in measure to be of mutual benefit to the people living there, and there is no reason why Henefers and other towns should not do likewise.

STORY OF A SLAVE.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. It is a godsend to weak, sickly run-down people. Cures guaranteed. Only 50c. Sold by John Boyden & Son, druggist.

THE REUNION.

Annual Outing of the Old Folks at Wanship.

The reunion of the old people of Summit Stake was held at Wanship last Wednesday. It was a fine gathering and the outing was greatly enjoyed by all who attended. The attendance was much larger this year, and the exercises more pleasant.

It was about noon when all had arrived on the grounds and got settled down. Righty's grove, the place of the gathering, was a beautiful spot, their being plenty of shade, good water, and everything clean and nice. After all had made themselves comfortable, lunch was prepared and the aged provided with all they could eat. Each ward cared for its own old folks and they were all taken care of properly. It was a pleasure for the young to wait on the old, and the latter greatly enjoyed the respect shown them. While in an old folks' party, there was present many of the young people who helped comfort the old. The Wanship brass band was present and rendered several selections, much to the delight of the old folks. The people of Wanship showed their appreciation of having the reunion at that place by preparing the grove and by turning out in the gathering.

The wardens of Henefers and Upton were not represented; it probably being too far for the aged to travel. All the other wards in the stake were well represented, and in all there were present about 250 people.

After all had eaten lunch, Chairman Allen called the crowd to order, and the following program was rendered in a pleasing manner:

Invocation..... Henry Reynolds
Singing..... Congregation
Five minutes' speech..... W. W. Cliff
Scandinavian song..... Christina Bloomquist
Recitation..... Mrs. Alice Long

Five minutes' speech..... Chas. Rodolph

Recitation..... Miss Sarah Hadson
Instrumental music..... Mrs. Fox
Song..... W. O. Anderson
Recitation..... C. H. West
Song..... Andrew Gregory
Recitation..... Miss Blanche Young
Song..... Congregation
Benediction..... Richard Birch

Every part of the program was well rendered, and from the expressions on the various faces one could not help but notice that the reunions were enjoyed.

It was about 4 o'clock when the program was finished and the prizes—black silk handkerchiefs—were awarded as follows: To the oldest man and wife, to the oldest woman and husband and to the couple longest married, Charles Rodolph received the first, Mrs. Pack the second, and Mr. and Mrs. Harber the last.

About 4:30 the start was made for home and in a short time the grove was empty. Everybody who was present expressed themselves as having a good time and are anxious for next year to come so that another reunion can be held. The committee is deserving of much praise for making the reunion the success that it was.

Another Record Broken.

Several days ago The Herald printed a story of a Rhode Island farmer who believed in raising children as a business and claims that his family of forty-two youngsters in the best investment he ever made. This was a remarkable family, and its size has filled Eastern newspaper readers with wonderment. Here in Utah it excited less comment.

But now comes a record-breaking family from Sicily, which claims recognition not only from ambitious parents, but from men of influence in European cities. The London Truth prints a long story of Nicotina Granata, who is the mother of forty-two sons and daughters.

Old Granata, the Rhode Islander, was married three times—three mothers have his children; but this Italian mother was not married until she was twenty-six years of age. In one year she gave birth to a daughter. Ten months afterward she gave birth to five boys, all named and well. Triplets and quaternions followed. Every year came two or three hopefuls to gladden the paternal heart, and only one other day she gave her husband a proof of her attachment by presenting him with five little girls, making a grand total of forty-two children.

Who can beat it? Who wants to? Salt Lake Herald.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, July 27, 1900.

The report of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Britton on the operations of Spain and other irregularities and extravagances in the Cuban postal system, which was made public this week, is not flattering to those Americans who have the idea that our government of Cuba was to teach the Cubans honesty and good government so as to prepare them to fittingly govern themselves. Spanish officials had shown the Cubans for generations how to be dishonest and extravagant in handling public money, and it is humiliating in the extreme to see officially, true, there is some consolation in the fact that the crookedness was exposed by the U. S. government and that the crooked American officials have already been degraded and are to be punished for their rascality, instead of having their shortcomings winked at, as the government of Spain usually did when the stealing or extravagance of its Cuban officials happened to be exposed, but none the less the whole business must be considered unfortunate in its effect upon Cuban ideas of the character of Americans.

If the Senate intended when it unanimously voted to instruct its committee on Cuban Relations to make an investigation of receipts and expenditures of public money in Cuba that the investigation should consist of the committee putting its O. K. upon investigations made by several executive departments of the government which collected and spent the money, no statement to that effect was made on the floor of the Senate. Several Senators did say that they considered the investigation to be made by the executive departments, all that were necessary, but they voted for the resolution for the investigation. Senator Platt, of Conn., chairman of the committee charged with the investigation, was in Washington this week, and being asked when the committee would begin work, said: "A searching investigation into the expenditure of Cuban funds is being made by both the Post-office and War Departments, and when they are prepared to report their findings to the Senate committee, we will have something upon which to begin work." To wait for the departmental reports will doubtless make the work of the Senatorial committee much easier, but with the public regard that as the independent investigation the Senate committee was expected to make, and will it be good politics for the party in power to allow the investigation to drag along until after election? Boldness and promptness in the handling of dishonest men, whether in official or private life, is always admired by the American people.

News from China grows more indeed less pleasing. The President's agreement to mediate in behalf of China with the powers, provided that China will put the foreign ministers in communication with their governments and that the Chinese imperial army will cooperate with the allied troops in restoring peace and order, is regarded as a good move. If the conditions are accepted and lived up to, the trouble would speedily end, and the only need for mediation would be to determine the manner in which China should pay the powers for damages done; but, say the doubters, suppose the Chinese government has lost control and cannot carry out promises it may make? Another message has been received from Minister Conger, and there is no doubt of its being all right. It was dated July 24th, and said the foreigners were all in the British legation in Peking, under constant attack from the Chinese soldiers, who were the only authority in the city, and that unless speedy help came a massacre was certain. Some regard that as bad news, some as good, some as proving that the message from Mr. Conger received through the Chinese Minister was genuine, and others as showing it to have been either an old message or a forgery. The Chinese Minister says it is good and that he is certain that the foreigners are all right and that the Chinese government is getting the Chinese under control. From other Chinese sources the U. S. Consul at Canton has wired the Department of State that the foreign Ministers at Peking were alive and well on July 23. With all this contradictory news it is not surprising that men with positive opinions are hard to find. Men hope for the best, but will not be surprised to hear the worst. In all these all-potential events, it is not surprising if it comes before the allies, army advances from Tientsin. The trouble is in reaching an agreement as to what the allied army shall accomplish. The government has announced its determination not to allow American troops to be used for any other purpose than the rescue and protection of foreigners in China.

Yesterday's Ball Game.

Interest in base ball is considerably on the increase since the Park City team came to Coalville on the 24th and carried off the twenty-five dollar cash prize; and the match pulled off in the City Park yesterday afternoon was an outgrowth of the Park City-Coalville meet. As previously announced, yesterday's game was played between picked teams of the county—owing to some misunderstanding, however, the men on each side failed to appear, thus materially weakening the game; and but for this fact, the playing would have come close to the "professional" mark. The teamwork on both sides was faulty, but many individual plays were first class. Allison and Williams occupied positions in the box for the respective sides throughout the nine innings, and both did remarkable work. The Williams team started out with a score of 10 to 0 and shortly crawled up to the 10 score in the seventh; but there they stayed, while Evans' team began their first rally in the fourth and, amid the cheers of the big crowd of spectators, made their seventh run as the side was retired in the ninth, and the hotly contested and interesting game was at an end.

We understand that Williams has challenged Evans for a game next Wednesday, Aug. 8; the challenge will undoubtedly be accepted and both teams will be strengthened for the occasion. The best men in Summit county, outside of Park City are to be secured.

We are requested to say that, according to agreement, the game was to have ended with the events at which time the Williams team was washed; but by request, they consented to play the nine innings.
